GRAHAM'S FOUNDATION WELCOMES GRADY GRANT, III, TO BOARD OF DIRECTORS

Grant's expertise will advance support for families who experience a premature birth

Toledo, Ohio, June 16, 2021 – Graham's Foundation, a non-profit organization whose mission is to support parents of premature babies, is pleased to announce that Grady Grant, III, has joined its Board of Directors. Grant's extensive background in executive sales and marketing will help the organization continue to grow.

“As we pursue our goal of reaching more parents of preemies, I am excited to have Grady join our board,” said Nicholas Hall, founder and president of Graham's Foundation. “Grady brings over 35 years of business experience to our team. He has held a number of executive-level positions in organizations such as Mead Johnson Nutrition and Eli Lilly. His knowledge and expertise will be a great addition to an already strong board.”

“As part of his extensive leadership experience, Grady set the strategic vision for large medical sales teams,” said Marie Boone-Clark, member of the Graham's Foundation Board. “He understood the need to prioritize strong collaborative relationships with clinicians in the hospital, pharmacy, and/or office setting. He also has a deep understanding of the healthcare sector and patient experience,” she added.

Since retiring from Eli Lilly and Mead Johnson Nutrition, Grant has held positions as VP of sales for Tissue Tech, a leader in regenerative amniotic tissue-based products, as well as interim CCO for New Visions Pharmaceuticals in Tamarac, Florida. Grant also serves on the board for Aptevo Therapeutics and Board Of Visitors for Temple University School of Pharmacy.

Grant is a graduate of Temple University, Philadelphia, and has attended a variety of executive-level general management and corporate leadership programs. He has NACD Directorship Certification, as well as certification from the Executive Education Corporate Governance from Northwestern University, Kellogg School of Business. Grant is also a Lean Six Sigma Green Belt.

“I look forward to working on the Graham’s Foundation Board and helping expand the reach of this very valuable organization,” Grant said.
